B-BBEE compliance, as with any type of compliance including tax compliance, is open to interpretation. Verification agencies are happy to accept these interpretations if they are in keeping with what the BEE codes prescribe.

Fact “the spirit of BEE” does not exist within the context of a BEE verification

No verification agency has the ability to assess you in terms of “the spirit” because their mandate is to objectively measure the evidence you present. Similarly, SANAS is not an interpreter of the BEE codes. They are there merely to assess the quality of the information submitted to a verification agency.

It follows that any reasonable interpretation of the codes will suffice for compliance purposes.

BEE Compliance has to fit within your business strategy and operations NOT THE OTHER WAY AROUND

It’s likely that we would have no loadshedding if Eskom hadn’t put “empowerment” credentials above their mandate to deliver cost effective and reliable electricity.

Why expose your business to a similar fate. Your business exists to provide employment and generate a return for its shareholders. Splurging large amounts of money on BEE points with all too willing service providers could impact on both of those business imperatives.

Don’t do it!!!! There are much more cost effective alternatives.

Take aways from the course

- The four hour online course covers practical short and medium term tips that will generate points under most BEE codes for the least amount of money and effort.
- Each element will be covered
- You'll hear about alternative compliance programmes. These will include options, alternates, internships, loans and many other tips in detail
- An overview of the verification process – it's all about documentation, all of that documentation is easy to draw up

Please note we are not going to teach you how to front and nor are we going to suggest that you change your HR practices to appease the despicable new Employment Equity regulations.
